

CCC Member's Directory

FOREWORD

The Cooperation Committee for Cambodia (CCC) is pleased to present the 2015 edition of the Membership Directory. This is the first edition produced by CCC and the first time the directory has been published in English.. Complementing this directory is the online searchable NGO database, which is updated regularly, and provides basic agency information (see CCC online database at ngodb.ccc-cambodia.org).

The Directory of Membership 2015 contains organizational history of 138 local and international non-government organizations registered and active in Cambodia. This first year's edition also includes the new revision of the Standards of Good Governance & Professional Practices for NGOs in Cambodia as well as the Local Association and Local Non-Government Organizations registration forms for the Ministry of Interior, and Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation.

The NGOs presented in this directory are involved in a wide range of activities in a variety of different fields and sectors. Some are newly formed and relatively small, and represent a growing and important sector of Cambodian civil society. Many are among the most active and influential local and international organizations in Cambodia working for many years in areas such as:

- Democracy and Human Rights, focusing on policy, training, networking, and advocacy work
- Community development including agriculture, health, education, HIV/AIDS, income-generation and other rural and urban development activities
- Community based organizations and associations participating and directly managing their own development processes.

CCC's objectives include providing information services about the NGO sector in Cambodia as well as supporting the development of the NGO sector in a changing environment. We hope this directory contributes to a better understanding of the work of local NGOs in Cambodia and that this in turn leads to stronger partnerships among the development community in Cambodia.

We would like to acknowledge the Member Service Unit Team for their work in producing this directory. Finally, this directory is dedicated to all the Cambodian and Expatriate staffs of CCC members are local NGOs and International NGOs, who are working together to build a better Cambodia for all.

Sincerely,

Soeung Saroeun
Executive Director

Action for Rural Economic Development of Cambodia (AREDOC) is a Cambodian non-governmental organization, whose mission is to contribute to the improvement of rural vulnerable families livelihood's and to strengthening local institutions of the Takeo Province. AREDOC was founded in the mid of 2010 by Mr. Keo Piseth Dara, with accreditation from Ministry of Interior with registration number 847 dated June 9, 2010 with the support of our donor, Global Humanitarian, we work with the rural population of the Takeo Province to deliver projects that focus on improving access to education by primary school aged children, removing barriers to school attendance by these children and strengthening the accountability of schools within this region. AREDOC is also implementing microcredit and financial services to the rural poor of the Takeo province, offering low interest and low collateral loans. These microcredit loans allow the recipients to access money to undertake activities to increase their earnings and improve their livelihood. Recognizing the important impact micro-credit support can have on the status of women in the household, AREDOC has worked to ensure that women remain key clients in the microcredit project.

Background:

In 1988 the ADRA Directors for Far Eastern Division and ADRA Thailand responded to a call for proposals from the Australian Development Agency, went to Cambodia, met with various ministries, and working with the ministry of Agriculture put together the first ADRA project in Cambodia that was operated out of Thailand. It was an irrigation project in Siem Reap which utilized the water from the Angkor Wat reservoir to irrigate local padi fields. Since then, ADRA Cambodia has expanded to Kompong Thom, Preah Vihear and Pursat provinces and operated projects in Food Security, WASH and Health Sectors which includes Tobacco Control. Relief for disaster response is added when needed.

ACTED is a French humanitarian NGO, founded in 1994 with a mission is to save lives and assist people with their needs during crises. ACTED has been working in Cambodia since 2009 when it took over the operations of Pharmaciens Sans Frontières (PSF). ACTED's values are shaped around the principle belief that every human deserves to live in dignity. ACTED thus aims to enable this right by developing peoples' potential, primarily in places where the most urgent needs are. ACTED undertakes programs that target the most vulnerable amongst populations that have suffered from conflict, natural disaster, or socio-economic hardship. ACTED's approach looks beyond the immediate emergency towards opportunities for longer term reconstruction and sustainable development.

The AFSC Cambodia program began immediately after the fall of the Khmer Rouge regime in 1979. Throughout the 1980s, the work focused on rebuilding basic services – particularly animal health, education, and irrigation. The continuing civil war led to a huge number of mine victims and amputees. AFSC Cambodia, in conjunction with several other international NGOs, began to produce artificial limbs and train people in their use. This grew into a joint effort with Cambodia Trust to establish the Cambodia School for Prosthetics and Orthotics, internationally accredited in 1998. During the 1990s AFSC turned over irrigation and animal health programs to government partners. In 2002, the Cambodia program devolved two programs. Khmer Ahimsa, now a local NGO, continues to revive traditional conflict resolutions methods. AFSC's remaining project in the disabilities sector – Community Work with Disabled People – was handed over to Cambodia Trust. In 1997, AFSC began the Integrated Sustainable Livelihoods Program in Sre Ambel district, Koh Kong, an insecure and underserved area of the country. In 2001, the ISL program's focus shifted to community-based natural resource management in support of villagers struggling against environmental destruction and lost livelihoods. The ISL program has moved from reliance on expatriate leadership to a Cambodian program manager and management team. In 2009, the program will begin its transformation into a local NGO. In 2003, AFSC began its peace partnerships program with local organizations on nationalism, ethnicity and identity. This program focuses on Cambodian peacemakers – individuals and groups with a commitment to promote a more mature and peaceful society. These local partners have conducted research on attitudes and behavior, developed training materials on nationalism and ethnicity, held dialogues with youth from neighboring countries, sponsored youth camps to explore a multicultural Cambodia, and initiated development activities in Khmer/Vietnamese border communities.

Background:

- 1993-1995: AOC established a presence in Cambodia, working in Phnom Penh and Surrounding provinces. Initial projects included medical health, renovation of health facilities and commune infrastructure, facilitating overseas mercy teams, training and seminars for local faith-based group leaders and their members, and food provision for victims of annual flooding.
- 1996-2008: AOC developed a relationship with the RCG in the Lvea Em district of Kandal province. AOC's most prominent program was launched during this period, the Boat of Hope, which brought health care to hard-to-reach areas along the Mekong River. During this period AOC greatly expanded their project work to include mobile clinics, a birth spacing program, HIV/ AIDS testing and support, TB education, emergency hospital evacuation, capacity building of local health centres, health education, health awareness and vaccination, water and sanitation, annual flood relief, bridge building, road development, and working with existing faith-based groups to help their communities through children's programs, youth programs, and a women's empowerment program.
- 2008-2013: This period saw project area expansion from Lvea Em district, Kandal province to include Pearang district, Prey Veng province. The project work during this period focused on water and sanitation, agricultural training, income generation (former HIV/ AIDS-TB), a youth centre providing English and computer classes, the Assisting Children To School project, and school health education, which stopped in 2010 due to a lack of funding.
- 2010-present: AOC expands into Stung Treng province in the far north, providing Services such as water and sanitation, non-formal education, and beginning development of a multi-purpose training centre, as well as agricultural and livelihoods training. Major sector for organization work: Agriculture Training, Water & Sanitation, Assisting Children to School, Community Hope Development, Model Farm and training Center,

Background:

It all started in 1984 with the release of Roland Joffé's film "The Killing Fields", in which the director tells the true story of the American journalist Sidney Schanberg and his Cambodian assistant Dith Pran. The action covers the final weeks of Lon Nol's regime in Cambodia in 1975. On 17 April, as the journalist is saved by his embassy, Dith Pran is ambushed in Phnom Penh. He will survive the genocidal regime put in place by the Khmer Rouge. The role of Dith Pran is played by a doctor, Aing Ngor, himself a victim of the Khmer Rouge. In 1988, the Association "Les Enfants d'Angkor" (the Children of Angkor) was set up in France on the initiative of Dr Ngor, who gave part of the money he earned from his work on the film. The idea for the association germinated in the mind of a Belgian who had worked in the Cambodian refugee camps in Thailand and who had met Aing Ngor. The Association aimed to support Cambodian children – either orphans or from particularly underprivileged backgrounds – through a system of individual sponsorships. In the same year, a Belgian television channel screened "The Killing Fields", which was followed by a debate by a panel including Dr Ngor. This gave rise to the idea of creating a sister association in Belgium, with the help of the Cambodian doctor. On 12 October 1989, the statutes of the Enfants d'Angkor-Belgique were published in the Moniteur Belge (the Belgian official journal) and this was followed a few days later by a press conference given by Dr Ngor. Very soon the first requests for information were received and the first sponsorships were put in place. The Association Angkor-Belgique really took off in December 1991 following the broadcast of "Vent du Sud", a television programme about Cambodian children. This programme showed the work of the Belgian association, whose representatives were present in the studio. Dr Ngor also took part, together with Nop Sideth, a Cambodian refugee living in Brussels, and the French and Belgian founders of the association. The Belgian association gradually grew and took on a more solid form, and, by a decision taken on 20 July 1996, was finally able to take the important step of becoming independent from its French sister association. The association took the name of "Association Angkor-Belgique" (Association Angkor-Belgium) and its statutes were published in the Moniteur Belge. Its main aim remained the same: to offer to underprivileged children the right to an education, one of the basic rights of the international Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Background:

CDPO was established under the National General Assembly in 1995 comprising 119 members, including persons of diverse disabilities and leaders from the government ministries. Since then, CDPO as well as the disability movement, has been officially recognized by the government and the general public and has successfully promoted the rights and participation of persons with disabilities. In 2001 CDPO signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans and Youth Rehabilitation (MOSVY) outlining its role and its responsibilities to the people with disabilities in Cambodia. From August 2003 in particular, through internal meetings and in conjunction with ADD International and Cambodia Trust organisations, agreements have been reached and actions taken which have enabled CDPO to strengthen its Governing Board. CDPO proceeded to advocate for the rights of persons with disabilities and to develop the networks of persons with disabilities, working towards their empowerment, their full & equal participation and a life of dignity in society. To date, CDPO has a membership base of 56 Disabled People's Organisations (DPOs) and Federation of persons with disabilities, including 8 Women with Disabilities Forums (WWDFs) which are recognized by the Ministry of Interior (MOI). On 15th March, 2010 CDPO was granted a permission letter from MOI to work with 46 commune councils within 23 provinces in Cambodia.

Background:

Cambodia Health Education Media Service (CHEMS), originally funded by Health Unlimited UK in 1998, became a registered local Cambodian NGO in 2004. CHEMS is proud to be an independent NGO that utilizes local knowledge and expertise to contribute to the Cambodian Royal Government's goal of improving public health in order to achieve poverty reduction, simultaneously raising the bar for media standards in the country. CHEMS was founded more than 14 years ago and focuses on providing information and advice, and Behavior Change Communications (BCC) on sexual and reproductive health issues to young people in Cambodia through interactive mass-media activities. CHEMS mission is to improve Cambodians' health by providing accurate and appropriate information and education through the use of effective media, communication and advocacy. CHEMS is well known for its entertaining, educational and empowering radio programs, broadcasted 5 times per week and inclusive of a live call-in show revolving around health and social issues, "Especially for You Young People", and a 15 minute radio soap opera, "Lotus on Muddy Lake", focusing on the same topics. CHEMS also became popular in the past two years thanks to production of the TV drama series "Music Mission". CHEMS has extensive experience working at community level. It specializes in capacity building, interactive community and focus groups, community theatre & public forums, and uses feedback to monitor and enhance its activities. As the majority of Cambodia's population is fairly young, reaching the Cambodian public, especially young people, has been CHEMS's priority

Background:

The Global Health Committee (GHC) had its beginnings in 1994 as the Cambodian Health Committee (CHC), which began its work in the tuberculosis (TB) wards of three district hospitals in rural Svay Rieng province in eastern Cambodia, bordering Vietnam. With an expansion to Africa, the Global Health Committee name was established in 2008 to reflect its worldwide focus. In Cambodia, the name CHC continues to be used. CHC has treated more than 32,000 people infected with TB in Cambodia, and today provides primary HIV care for more than 4,300 adults and 1,000 children in Svay Rieng, once devastated by the Vietnam War, and Kompot, another war-impacted province where the Khmer Rouge actively fought until 1997, and in Phnom Penh, the capital city. When CHC first arrived in Svay Rieng it had one of the highest rates of TB in the world. GHC began its work in Ethiopia in 2008. As of April 2013, more than 700 patients have been started on therapy for drug-resistant TB in a pioneering program in cooperation with the country's Ministry of Health, which established drug-resistant TB care in the country, which is one of the poorest on earth and has the seventh highest burden of TB globally. This program follows the model of success CHC earlier established in Cambodia. The organization's success lies in its community-based approach, pioneering this first-of-its-kind model of community-based care and treatment that has its roots in the refugee camps of the Thai-Cambodia border in the 1980s. CHC discovered that the strong community ties and tight-knit extended families that characterize the region is a treasured resource that can be leveraged to achieve strong results even in a war zone. Building on the success of its TB program, CHC applied that same novel approach to treat AIDS while employing cutting edge tools and technologies of science to discover new and more effective therapies. Today, the organization persists in pioneering new ways to care for people with TB/AIDS in hard-to-access rural areas. GHC's TB and AIDS treatment programs and advocacy work continue to promote innovative approaches to treating infectious diseases in partnership with families and communities. Our research has revealed answers to the many scientific questions about TB and HIV infection. In particular, the CAMELIA (Cambodian Early versus Late Introduction of Antiretrovirals) study, led by the CHC in partnership with French colleagues and support by the French ANRS and the NIH in the US, has provided an answer to the optimal timing of drugs for TB/HIV and is expected to save more than 150,000 lives this year alone. Moving forward GHC/CHC will continue its relentless pursuit to attack TB, AIDS and the root causes of these diseases in adults and children in Asia and Africa, giving people the knowledge and access to medicines to allow them to lead healthy lives.

Cambodian HIV/AIDS Education and Care (CHEC) evolved from the Quaker Service Australia, and registered as a local NGO by the Ministry of Interior in March 2001. CHEC works in 5 Operational Districts (ODs) in 5 different provinces. The CHEC program works with the communities to train village leaders, community health centre staff, and village health volunteers, in partnership with district health departments. Training is provided on community education approaches and counseling skills. The provision of capacity enhancement to the community health care workers, community personnel to prevent HIV/AIDS, has been responded to the strategy to address the multi-sectoral response to HIV/AIDS. CHEC strategies are met through the provision of training, media-social marketing, and expansion of our participatory action with affected communities. All of these strategies are coordinated to prevent HIV and STI transmission, reduce stigma & discrimination and facilitate PLWHA support.

Background:

The Cambodian Master Performers Program was created in 1998, by Arn Chorn-Pond a small group of dedicated people in the United States, to honor and support these recognized Masters of traditional arts. Initially, the program supported four Master Artists whom Arn Chorn-Pond had “discovered”, living or surviving in difficult conditions. The organization helped them by acquiring instruments, renting teaching spaces and providing them with a salary. From 1999 to 2009, the program was sustained by the international organization World Education a critical supporter and nurturer. We celebrated important achievements, every success slowly piecing together cultural fabric of Cambodia’s traditional performing arts.

Fifteen years ago, Cambodia was in danger to lose its artistic and identity memory and heritage. Focus was therefore made on recovery and preservation of Cambodian traditional arts, by providing classes to Cambodian youth, allowing them to acquire basic artistic skills. The organization grew and supported 16 Master Artists and 11 assistant teachers reaching over 200 students in 8 provinces in Cambodia yearly. But context and needs of Cambodian society evolved, a new generation of artists emerged and 10 years after its creation the organization had to evolve and adapt its actions. In 2009, the Cambodian Master Performers Program became Cambodian Living Arts (CLA) and welcomed Phloeun Prim as its new Director. CLA also became a program of the Marion Institute, a U.S. based non-profit organization that serves as an incubator for organizations that inspire positive change in the areas of healing and sustainability. We tried to put our focus on developing talents and skills to increase national and international recognition and awareness of Cambodian arts and culture. More than providing support locally to some communities, we hope in the future to enable arts sustainability on a national scale, and to raise awareness globally. In 2011, CLA renewed its mission and vision to reflect this spirit. In 2010, Cambodian Living Arts was awarded a Global Vision Award for Cultural Restoration from Travel + Leisure magazine. We believe that our efforts have met with success, not only through our own actions, but because we have been joined by the Ministry of Culture and Fine Arts, as well as many other peer organizations, working together to preserve the culture and artistic heritage of Cambodia. We would like to thank all our donors and partners for their support and hard work. Since April 1, 2014, and after 5 successful years as a program of the Marion Institute, CLA is setting out on its own as an independent 501c3 non-profit organization. We are delighted to celebrate our 15th anniversary with this move, which recognizes the maturity of our organization, the value of our work, and that CLA is here to stay.

Background:

Belonging to the first educated generation after the Khmer Rouge period, the 5 founders of the Cambodian Rural Development Team (CRDT) were disadvantaged rural children. Access to education was an uphill struggle. Hard work saw our founders meeting at university, and being in the minority coming from under-privileged backgrounds, they banded together as a team. They developed a shared vision for the future of Cambodia – ‘one free from environmental degradation and poverty’ as they found that in Cambodia few rural people survive entirely on what they produce from their own land. They supplement their livelihoods by hunting, fishing or gathering forest products. But overfishing and deforestation are threatening both this way of living and ecosystems. The Mekong River Dolphin and many other critically endangered species are on the verge of extinction due to destructive natural resource usage. Our founding members experienced poverty first hand in their youth, and saw how closely linked poverty is to natural resources. If livelihoods are tied to environmental issues, a population exploding after years of atrocities means more people sharing Cambodia’s natural bounty. This free-for-all of natural resource exploitation cannot last. Founded in 2001 as a voluntary university-student initiative, called at that time the Cambodian Volunteer Rural Development Team (CVRDT), the strong motivation, deep technical expertise and hard work of the team resulted in the rapid growth of the organization. Through securing partnerships with large international organizations, CRDT changed from implementing one-off projects, to sustained integrated programs covering a variety of livelihood, natural resource management, and community development components. These aim to raise living standards and contribute to environmental conservation. Since 2004, CRDT have delivered community and rural development to over 6,000 families in support of conservation of critically endangered Mekong River Irrawaddy Dolphins in Kratie and Stung Treng, and the protection of tropical forest biodiversity in Monduliri. CRDT was officially registered with the Ministry of Interior as a local NGO in 2005 and the original founding members of the organization are still involved in its management and governance.

Background:

Founded in 1980, Caring for Young Refugees had worked in the Cambodian refugee camp in Thailand for the young refugee children for 13 years until the closure of the refugee camp. Caring for Young Khmer started its work in Cambodia in 1991 before the refugees from the Thai Cambodian border camps repatriated. After general visits to study the situation in Cambodia during 1990-1991, we learned that a large number of children were still severely affected by the shortage of appropriate care and education. Caring for Young Khmer; CYK, a Japanese NGO began the community-based projects to increase the welfare of children and self-reliance of their mothers through child-related and income generating activities in 1991 in Cambodia.

Background:

Caritas Cambodia has two histories in the past 30 years. In 1970, the Catholic Church in Cambodia organized an Aid Commission to help the victims of war. This Aid Commission took the name of Caritas Cambodia that was also recognized by the Caritas Internationals and accepted it as a full-fledged member in 1973. This Caritas functioned till 17th April 1975, the date when Khmer Rouge took over the political power in Phnom Penh. There was not only the closure of Caritas Cambodia and all religious activities but also there were the Vietnamese Army overthrew genocide of 1.7 million people out of the total 8 million Cambodians this regime in 1979. Though after the Pol Pot Regime people who fled away have come back to their places in the country, practicing religion was fully banned under the Communist Regime. This continued till March 1990. In April 1990 freedom to practice religion was given to Cambodians. The Beginnings 1990 – 1998 It was in 1990 that the Secretary General of Caritas Internationalis and Secours Catholique of Paris came together to Cambodia and registered an organization under the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Cambodia as an Antenna of Caritas Internationalis. The former present Bishop of Phnom Penh. Emile Destombes M.E.P returned to Cambodia in 1989. He was expelled in 1975 during the Pol Pot Regime. Bishop Yves Ramousse was the Bishop and was the first President for Caritas Structure. In 1997, Fr. Emile was ordained as Co-adjutore and in 2001 he became Bishop and in turn became the President of Caritas Cambodia until late 2006. In December 2007 Mgr. Enrique Figaredo (Kike) the apostolic vicariate of Battambang diocese became the president of Caritas Cambodia.

Catholic Agency For Overseas Development (CAFOD) has come to existence since 1960s, and poverty alleviation and global justice has been its major commitment. Registered as a Catholic aid agency for England and Wales, CAFOD is working with more than 500 partners across the world including Africa, Middle East, Latin America and the Caribbean, and Asia. Grants from CAFOD are utilized to ensure that men and women in developing countries are having decent living, having access to clean water, education and health care.

As one among the Catholic International Development Agencies, CAFOD has been playing a role in Cambodia's development since 1980. In early 2011, the institution opened its regional office in Phnom Penh to manage programs in South East Asia, mainly Cambodia and Myanmar, and to build a closer relationship with partners and other development stakeholders. Having long been involved in the country, CAFOD's work has evolved over the years to strategically focus on Land rights, Livelihoods and Resilience, and Green Inclusive Growth.

Partnership is an essential identity of CAFOD and programme in Cambodia; as a component in the South East Asia regional programme, is currently being implemented by seven local non governmental organizations.

Established by ChildFund Australia in 2007, ChildFund Cambodia initially commenced operations in Cambodia in Svay Rieng province in 2008 and expanded to Kratie province in 2010. Today our work involves evidence-based planning in the education, youth, water sanitation and health, livelihoods and food security, governance, child rights and child protection sectors. In 2009 ChildFund commenced the hosting of the Child Helpline Cambodia program, which in 2012 became a nationalized NGO. Ensuring that our work includes the cross-cutting issues of gender, minority, disability, HIV and AIDS, child participation and human rights is important. All of our work is based on the Convention on the Rights of the Child. The Community Legal Education Center (CLEC) was created in 1996 as a legal resource center, promoting the rule of law, justice, and democracy in Cambodia. CLEC legal empowerment activities combine legal awareness, training, legal aid services and advocacy supports. Its training is designed for a wide range of target groups including local communities and NGOs. CLEC has been involved in advocacy on a number of significant law reform issues including the 2001 Land Law, the sub-decree on indigenous communal land titling, establishment of the Arbitration Council, the election dispute resolution process, the drafting of the Peaceful Assembly Law, and commentary and review of numerous pieces of legislation. Since 2004, CLEC has embarked on a major project of high impact public interest legal advocacy, particularly in the areas of land and natural resources and labor. Legal representation, legal defense and consultation are becoming even more crucial as tools to support legal empowerment both in the improvement and assertion of the rights of communities and in law and policy development and enforcement. From 1996 to 2001, CLEC operated as an arm of the University Of San Francisco School Of Law, funded by USAID. In December 2001, it became a locally registered NGO. Since its establishment, CLEC has educated over five thousand Cambodians on different subjects of law through its "certificate in law" program. CLEC has also produced a legal text-book series, which represent some of the only Cambodian legal texts on a wide range of subjects

CORD's work began in the region in 1967 in response to the Vietnam War. It later responded to the Cambodian refugee crisis on the Thai-Cambodian border in 1975, working in the refugee camps. It was an implementing partner with UNHCR until 1993 supporting refugees and eventually assisting with their repatriation from Thailand to Cambodia. In 1990, CORD initiated a primary health care project in Kampot province and the project operated until 1995. Between 1994-1999, CORD began implementing an integrated community development program, called Agriculture, Business and Community Development (ABCD) in Prey Veng Province, developed following research by consultant in 1992. In 1996, CORD established a primary health care project, Education For Good Health (EFGH) in the same province.

In order to ensure the long-term sustainability of the programme, CORD localised the ABCD programme to a Cambodian NGO in 1998, named Ponleu Noy Khedy Sangkum (PNKS), meaning “Light of Hope”.

In 2001, CORD took over an integrated rural development project, Community Development Assistance Project (CDAP) in Kampong Speu Province, started by ZOA in 1998. Over a period of six years, CORD reduced its role while initiating a range of capacity development strategies within PNKS. Finally in 2004, EFGH and CDAP were handed over to PNKS. CORD has continued to support PNKS, and in 2006 undertook an assessment in Cambodia with a view to developing a regional based partnership programme, which led to the establishment of its South & East Asia Regional Office in Phnom Penh in mid-2007 which is now moving apace with the development of its regional programme and team of capacity development experts.

Background:

CWS began its activities in Cambodia in 1979 as one of the few humanitarian organizations permitted to work in the country after the fall of the Khmer Rouge regime. Limited to working through central government structures, as all international agencies were at this time, CWS initially began working with the government in the area of agriculture production and infrastructure rehabilitation. 1980s CWS' involvement in Cambodia was primarily limited to providing technical assistance to the government, notably the Department of Agriculture and Food. American volunteers as well as Cuban engineers and veterinarians, worked through respective government structures and line ministries providing technical support with the rehabilitation of irrigation system, improving agricultural production and animal husbandry and provision and use of tools of production. 1990's The Paris Peace Agreement in 1991 paved way for international humanitarian organization to operate more freely in the country. This effectively allowed agencies to reach a greater number of villages and expand development activities. In the two years following the peace accords. CWS established community development projects in Svay Rieng, Kandal, Kompong Thom and Battambang provinces. Two of the projects (Svay Rieng and Battambang) worked through the Department of Agriculture implementing agriculture livelihood activities. The other two projects in Kompong Thom and Kandal assisted in the reintegration of refugees who started to return from the Thai-Cambodian Border. During these years, CWS moved from supporting specific sectoral projects to working in a broader, more integrated and holistic manner. Projects were reoriented in line with integrated community development, with particular attention to issues such as community food security (agriculture and income generation), health, forestry, etc. Developing local advocacy and emergency response capabilities were also included as core objectives of these projects. Initially, building the capacity of communities centered on village development committees or VDCs, mainly patterned from the work of UNDP CARERE in the mid-1990s. However, the concept of self-help groups (SHGs) was introduced in the late 1990s, and became the primary approach to organizing communities by both CWS projects and its partners. These same groups also became the vehicle in improving the economic status of poor and vulnerable families by encouraging individual savings and providing working capital assistance to members. Toward the end of the 1990s there were at least two SHGs in each village in each of the 5 provinces where CWS working. 2000 - 2004 The turn of the century proved to be challenging for CWS. The institution had its first fully funded external evaluation in 2000, providing an opportunity for the agency to learn from its experience over the past two decades and pursue more proactive programs. Internal limitations came into play however, thus preventing CWS from pursuing the recommendations of the external evaluation. It was recognized at this point that CWS needed to formulate a comprehensive strategic plan that clear set the direction of all of its programs. In 2003, CWS formulated such a plan covering the period until 2010. CWS's vision is of "... Cambodia society where the basic needs of all people are met; communities are supportive, cooperative and unified, built on the foundations of equity and acceptance" CWS's mission is to work with communities to enhance the well being of Cambodia's vulnerable people and rural poor in the process of rehabilitation, development and emergency response" its goal is to "...to build a strong civil society that will impact positively on the standard of living of the poor and vulnerable people, the equality of women and overall peace.

DanChurchAid has been working in Asia since the late 1970s and been supporting work in Cambodia since 1979 through organizations such as Lutheran World Service, American Friends Service Committee and a joint ecumenical initiative through the World Council of Churches with Church World Service. In 1997, DanChurchAid established a programme office in Cambodia and began supporting more than 30, mainly local NGO's. Since 2008, DCA's programmes has been joint with its British sister organisation, Christian Aid (CA). DCA/CA's work in Cambodia is guided by the development objective of an empowered Cambodian civil society in which women and men participate equally to defend rights and contribute to more accountable governance. Further, DCA works to promote the right to food and a secure and sustainable livelihood for vulnerable and impoverished Cambodians. DCA/CA Cambodia works through 27 local implementing partners, providing technical support, capacity development and financial assistance. DCA is a member of both NGO Forum in Cambodia and Cooperation Committee for Cambodia (CCC).

Danmission has a long history of presence in Cambodia. Danmission has worked in the country since 1993, where our point of entry was cooperation with the international NGOs, World concern and Summer Institute of Linguistics. In 2000, this cooperation led to the formation and registration of an international faith-based development organization, international cooperation cambodia (ICC), which is owned by six NGOs, including Danmission.

Danmission has decided to phase out its involvement in ICC by 2012 and to establish itself as an independent INGO supporting LNGOs. Danmission provided funding to seven local partners; Abundant Life Church (ALC) in Preach Sdach, Continuing Education Program for Alumni (CEPA), EFC Kingdom Equipped Youth (EFC KEY), Poverty Alleviation through Rural Community Empowerment (ICC-PARCE), Khmer Development of Freedom Organization (KDFO), House of Care Organization and Wholistic Development Organization (WDO). Danmission is currently considering increasing the number of partners with one or two LNGOs. Apart from funding, Danmission has seconded 5 expatriates to support the local partners in various ways.

Background:

East Meets West (EMW) began its program work in 1986, launching its first health projects in Central Vietnam. EMW was founded by Le Ly Hayslip, a Vietnamese woman who fled to the United States after the end of the war and married an American serviceman. Le Ly described her experiences during the war in her book "When Heaven and Earth Changed Places," which became the basis for Oliver Stone's movie "Heaven and Earth." EMW grew quickly over the next two decades, building an extensive network of medical and educational facilities throughout Vietnam. The organization designed and launched innovative grassroots programs that provided disadvantaged families and their children with access to the necessities – clean water, medical and dental care, and high quality education. EMW continually evaluated and improved its programs based on the latest learning. It expanded into new fields, like sanitation, and pioneered new approaches, like Output-based Aid, to help scale program impact. Starting in 2008, East Meets West began expanding many of its most successful programs to other countries and regions of the world. By working through partnerships and the smart use of technology, EMW was able to create more impact, more efficiently, in more places.

Enfants&Développement was created on April 26, 1984 as "SOS Children of Cambodia" in order to help the child victims of the Cambodian genocide. We were the first NGO to permanently establish ourselves in Cambodia. Until 1987, all our different projects were centered in this country: procurement of medications and medical materials, training nurses, technical support...The seriousness and the quality of these actions, which have continued over many years, has allowed us to create a special relationship and to become recognized in the country. Remaining in the same geographical area has allowed us to better understand socio-economical and political contexts there, and our association has been able to extend our activities to Laos, the Philippines , Vietnam , Nepal , Sri Lanka , and also Burkina Faso and France . Our purpose remains "to improve the living conditions, health, and education of the neediest children."

Background:

FSC has existed as a local NGO for four years, providing a range of prevention and support services for at risk boys and young men who have been affected by sexual abuse – and their families, care givers and supporters. As the result of a research project that was undertaken in 2007 by a small Cambodian team which was overseen by Alastair Hilton (the FSC Technical Advisor), a training schedule was developed and piloted with careers, social workers and other practitioners working with boys and young men. Once this was completed, it was recognised that there was a need to create a local NGO with specially trained staff who could both provide high quality training but also a range of social work services to support the many needs of victims and survivors of sexual abuse. In response to the needs of survivors and professionals working in this field, First Step Cambodia was launched in April 2010. This was initially under the umbrella of the Chab Dai Coalition and in 2012 FSC became an independent local NGO. FSC has been delivering a range of services in pursuant of our Vision and Mission for the past three years and these have included providing a range of ongoing support and social work services to survivors and their families and supporters and training over 50 social workers, careers and managers to respond appropriately and effectively to boys and young men who have experienced sexual abuse. We have also developed training for our team and specialist and sensitive support for young people displaying sexually harmful behaviors (we believe that we are currently the only NGO or agency providing this at present in the whole of Cambodia); our support and consultation services are requested by a growing number of agencies and professionals who recognize our expertise in this area. In the past year FSC has developed a pilot outreach project in Siem Reap to respond to the needs and lack of service provision for children who have been sexually abused and for children who are displaying sexually harmful behaviors. We are working closely with the Angkor Hospital for Children and other relevant partners to ensure that both boys and girls who have experienced any form of abuse and exploitation are receiving joined-up services.

GCT's founding director, Ms. Navy Chann, brought together a group of individuals with extensive experience working with civil society organizations in order to address the skill training and employment needs of youth and women in Cambodia. After leading the CRWRC, an international relief and development organization and long-time member of CCC, as the Country Director for Cambodia for 10 years, Mrs. Navy resigned from the CRWRC and now focuses on creating meaningful job experiences and work opportunities for Cambodians.

GCT provides job and career counseling, life skills trainings, monitoring and coaching on job readiness, job placements and volunteer and internship opportunities.

In the future, GCT hopes to function similarly to an employment agency and offer services for job seekers. In this process, GCT seeks to collaborate with other NGOs, businesses and government ministries such as the Ministry of Labor, Technical and Vocational Education, which has a similar mandate to GCT.

Background:

Hagar was established in 1994, in response to the needs of destitute women and children living on the streets of Phnom Penh. Initially Hagar provided emergency shelter facilities and trauma counselling services, however this assistance was later extended to include vocational skills training and womens' development training. Hagar aims to assist women and children towards greater self-sufficiency through a holistic approach of rehabilitation and development assistance, value based training, and skills development in order to equip them as productive members of society. Associated micro-enterprise projects in soya milk production, sewn handicrafts and catering were subsequently developed to provide employment opportunities for women graduating from the program. Today, Hagar's social enterprises – HOT (Hagar On-Time), So! Soya and Hagar Catering and Facilities Management, put social concerns alongside economic opportunities for women and children in crisis. Education is a foundational value throughout all of Hagar's projects with the aim of promoting community health, empowerment, human rights, anti-trafficking, anti-domestic violence and education for girls. Policy on Support of Local Initiative Groups Hagar seeks to work with the community, partnering local initiatives where objectives and principles are in accord with those of Hagar and its donors.

Background:

Injuries from explosions caused by landmines and other explosive weapons as well as road traffic accidents are a leading cause of disability in Cambodia. We work to make land safe from weapons of war and promote road safety but also provide physical rehabilitation services; produce and fit prosthetic limbs and orthoses. Our activities in Cambodia support programmes to prevent the development of disabling impairments in young children; promote HIV/AIDS prevention programmes that are accessible to people with disabilities and work to develop activities to support the inclusion and participation of people with disabilities in all aspects of public life. In 1982 Handicap International's story began in a commitment made by a group of French doctors to help disabled Cambodian refugees living in the vast Khao I Dang refugee camp across the border in northern Thailand. With no other support available these doctors began fitting prosthetic limbs and orthoses for those in need. Most of the amputees living in the camp were victims of landmines and as the organisation grew so did the fight against these weapons, a fight which, led to the founding of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines and eventually the Ottawa Mine Ban Treaty. As our work in the camps continued, rehabilitation services were developed for all those in need and when people began returning to Cambodia in 1991, we went with them to ensure that people could access the services they needed. In 1993 our demining and mine risk education activities began. These activities continue today, but our current projects cover a much wider area and also focus on tackling barriers to inclusion and activities to prevent the development of disabling impairments

Background:

Hands of Hope Community (HHC) is a vibrant ministry, serving and reaching the lost and hurting children with intellectual/ physical disabilities of Cambodia. This is done throughout our daycare ministries who are in deep needs of life-controlling problems. We are hoping to enhance the lives of children and youth with intellectual disabilities through our services by sharing the LOVES of God. Hands of Hope Community provides care and support to children with physical/intellectual disabilities and their families in accessing educational services, the children are very special persons, special for God, therefore they need special services and quality care from us. HHC is committed to provide safe, quality rehabilitation, equality of education and Toy Library program for these marginalized children.

Hands of Hope Community (HHC) is Christian Organization, officially registered with the Ministry of Interior (No: 1588) to develop programs and the strategies to promote the needs of children and youth with moderate and severe intellectual disabilities. The key to arriving at the effective and sustainable outcome for these, the most vulnerable of children is to created and nurture partnership with other organizations in the disability sectors. there is also recognition that individual, families and communities need to be involve in the decision making at all levels, on this matter affecting the well-being of people with disabilities in Cambodia.

Hands of Hope Community (HHC) provides professional and compassionate environment for children to receive the emotional, physical and social support they need, as well as the opportunity to participate in most of the regular school activities with other children living in the community. HHC's methodology strives continually towards high quality individualized holistic care provision for children with disabilities which aims to maximize independent living and integrated community living for the children in our program. It is regarded as one of the most advanced models of community based rehabilitation in Cambodia.

Background:

HelpAge International (HAI) officially started work in Cambodia in 1992 in partnership with the Ministry of Health for eye care delivery and with the Ministry of Social Affairs in providing quality of life for older people. HAI has several years of concrete experience working with older people in the provinces of Battambang and Banteay Meanchey. The approach of HelpAge in working with older people in the villages has gradually moved from direct emergency aid, to rehabilitation and development work, in particular community organization and the establishment of Older People's Associations (OPA). This shift in strategy is in response to the changing social and political environment in Cambodia. Lessons learnt from past experiences has also taught HelpAge that helping older people to collectively help themselves is an effective and sustainable approach to the empowerment of poor older people.

Background:

Since 1991, the partner agencies of ICC have been involved in relief and development work amongst the Cambodian people. This multi-faceted work now continues under the name of ICC in the areas of language development, education, healthcare, food security, agriculture, income generation, leadership development and other activities that improve the well-being of people and communities around Cambodia.

Whether we are supporting disadvantaged children from the slums of Phnom Penh to attend school, or helping farmers in the remote province of Monduliri find better ways of managing their crops, we are committed to seeing the people of Cambodia secure their own future.

Whether we are assisting remote tribes in Ratanakiri to develop their own written language, or training villagers from displaced communities in Phnom Penh to set up their own micro-enterprises, we are committed to seeing the people of Cambodia move towards 'wholeness' in their lives.

Whether we are getting our hands dirty with local villagers in far-off provinces, or sitting down to lobby and advocate senior Government officials in urban centres, we are committed to seeing lasting change in Cambodia.

The work of ICC covers a broad cross-section of the population – male and female, young and old, rural and urban – impacting the lives of people and communities from 8 different ethnic groups in 12 different provinces and cities across Cambodia.

WeWorld Intervita is a non-profit non-governmental organisation for development cooperation, recognised by the Italian Ministry of Foreign Affairs; we are independent, non-denominational and apolitical. Established in Milan in 1999, WeWorld Intervita works in Italy, Asia, Africa and Latin America to support children, women and local communities in the fight against poverty and inequality and to promote sustainable development. WeWorld Intervita fosters a culture of mutual support, social commitment, and respect for human rights. In looking to achieving long-term integrated development, we choose to operate in areas with a high poverty index. There, in working with local partners in various arenas at the same time – health, education, food safety, children's and women's rights, environmental sustainability, and community engagement – we aim to lay solid foundations for real, lasting community development. WeWorld Intervita collaborates with a network of other civil-society organisations to give the most vulnerable people a voice on the Italian and international political agenda, and we are involved in the main networks protecting children's and women's rights.

Background:

KdK began working in Cambodia in 2005 as a branch of the Boston-based International Center for Conciliation. In 2010, the organization registered as a local NGO under the laws of the Kingdom of Cambodia and, in 2012, changed its name to Kdei Karuna – a Sanskrit word used in both Hinduism and Buddhism, translates to compassionate action aimed to heal. Recognizing early on the unmet needs of Cambodians in dealing with historically-rooted conflicts that could not be addressed by the ECCC, KdK began initially implementing projects in its Justice & History Outreach (JHO) program that sought to create a culture of peace by redefining relationships on the basis of understanding and empathy in rural Cambodian communities via the facilitation of dialogues on history and memory, and training in dialogue facilitation and mediation. Since 2007, the JHO project has undertaken work in 14 villages. In 2012, KdK revived its past work on ethnic and identity-based conflict resolution by implementing the Exploring ASEAN History & Cooperation. The project is a traineeship program that addresses prejudices and xenophobia through historical dialogue and awareness raising.

Background:

After completing in 2002 a 'Self Development' training course with Youth Resource Development Program (YRDP), the trainees in the course who were from different universities in Phnom Penh have decided to create on March 9th, 2002 a volunteer youth club called "Khmer Community Development".

Local and international organizations as well as local authorities and villagers were positively impressed by the activities implemented by KCD club in the community, especially donors who support KCD's activities.

Support from Cambodian Children and Young People Movement for Child Rights (CCYPMCR) of Child Rights Foundation (CRF), allowed KCD to legally register with the Ministry of Interior (MoI) to become a local non-government organization in February 2005. KCD is a non-profit organization, not affiliated with any political party or religion and working based on the philosophy of KCD.

From July 2006, concerned by the peace threatening latent conflicts in the Cambodian border region, KCD decided to concentrate its activities in Prek Chrey Commune, Kandal Province, to explore the relations between ethnic Khmer and ethnic Vietnamese people living in the border area to Vietnam.

A long history of war in Cambodia created a lot of barriers to the development of the country. Despite of the peace agreement signed in 1992, there is no guarantee for the security and the happiness of its people at family level. Peace means solidarity and working constructively together to build a culture of real sustainable peace in the society. KCD believes that children and youth are a powerful force to build peace, contribute to social development and manage natural resources for good and sustainable quality of life in the society.

Background:

Poor and alienated people have few chances to get education at public school and most of them drop out when they reach lower secondary school or high school. They are asked by their family to find a job to do to support the family. Girls are luckier because they can find a stable job in the garment factories, but it is very hard for boy to go to the factory and, as a result, they find an unstable one, usually in the construction area. After a while they are free and stay at home again. To give a chance to poor and alienated people to get basic informal education, KOMISO was established in 2008.

Background:

Whilst working in Cambodia with Tearfund in 2000-2005, Glenn and Siobhan Miles decided to use funds given to them by their churches in the UK and USA to provide support for small churches in Cambodia. Kone Khmeng began its work in June 2005. But it really developed into a national NGO as a result of God's vision to Kone Khmeng's Director/Co-founder later that fall, in which God clearly called him to direct this work through the vision statement above. It was registered with the Ministry of Interior of the Royal Government of Cambodia in 2007 to support churches with a heart to reach out to children in their communities. The intended projects are not large projects requiring major funding, but are small projects where small churches are already doing something but need further resources in capacity building and minor funding.

Krousar Yoeung association is implementing integrated activity programs focusing on early childhood development in rural communities and sub urban. These programs are designed to promote a family and community environment conducive to the harmonious development of the small child, taking into account its nutritional, health, nurturing and educational needs, while at the same time building the responsibility of parents in their parenting duties. The activities developed are based upon the resources and experiences of the communities themselves, seeking to reinforce their capacity to be motivated and take charge of the nurturing and welfare of the little ones. KrY has a vital role in assisting communities address financial sustainability issues through building family, community and local authority ownership and accountability. Thank to the support of income generating activities, many community preschools have now reached the point of financial and self sufficient. KrY organize and conduct a chain of training that involves communities, parents' committee, child minders, supervisors, ECD NGO staff, assist the community in producing toys from raw and locally available material. Since 2005, KrY in collaboration with Enfants & Developpement implement a project centered on reinforcing families ability to cope with their environment, assisting the most vulnerable families in their search of durable solutions to improve their living conditions, empowering them and making them accountable on specific health care and education objectives, enhancing their staff condition and encouraging them to call upon existing public or associative services.

LIFE WITH DIGNITY (LWD) is an autonomous Cambodian NGO localized from the Lutheran World Federation (LWF)/Department for World Service's Cambodia Program in Jan 2011. LWD, under the local leadership, continues working with all existing donors/partners and related government agencies to improve the livelihoods of the poor in rural Cambodia. LWD continues the more than 30-year-old program of LWF Cambodia, which shifted from emergency relief, demining, resettlement and rehabilitation to integrated rural development with an emphasis on rights-based empowerment, to uphold the rights of the poor and oppressed. Beyond a focus on the delivery of Development Service to the poor in rural Cambodia, LWD established a Training Unit and it started to provide training and consultancy service to its staff and partner NGOs locally and internationally since 2007. In 2015, the Training Unit was transformed into LWD Learning Center.

Louvain Coopération started working in Cambodia in 2004 first in the field of mental health, jointly with Cambodian civil society organisations and state actors such as the National Programme for Mental Health, SSC and TPO. Over the years, these projects were involved in the creation of two hospital units, the opening of a consultation unit I Kompong Speu, supporting patients in the hospitals of Kampong Thom and Baray-Suntuk (Kampong Thom province). Since 2008, and in partnership with TPO-Cambodia, LD developed the organisation of mental health and psychosocial care in order to contribute to a National Programme on Mental Health, in accordance to the guideline of the Ministry of Health. Therefore it was decided to refocus the project on one province, Kompong Thom, linking hospital, health centre and communities and to extend it to other provinces in the future. Following the same partnership philosophy, LD extended since 2011 his activities in rural Cambodia to chronic Non-Communicable Diseases (NCD) and to Food and Economic Security (FES). LD decided to partner with Mopotsyo organization for NCD and with MODE for FES. LD is now working in three provinces: Kampong Thom, Kampong Cham and Tbong Khmum.

MTI was founded in 1979 with its first international response being to provide Medical assistance to the Refugee camps along the Cambodia/Thai border. Cambodia restarted its work in Cambodia in October 2006 focusing initially on Emergency Medical Service (EMS) First Responder training to nurses. In 2007, MTI registered in country and implemented several small Community Health projects including a water and sanitation project in a resettled community outside Phnom Penh. In 2010 MTI-Cambodia started a three-year project to strengthen the EMS system in Kampong Cham Province, in partnership with the Provincial Health Depart. In 2012, a Community Health project in Oddar Meanchey Province was commenced, focusing on pneumonia in children and maternal and child nutrition. In January 2014 this project was expanded to become a Province-wide Maternal and Child Health project, with key focuses on IMCI, Nutrition and Pediatric TB at both facility and community level. In 2014 MTI also started two new projects, a Safe Motherhood project covering Memot and Srey Santhor Operational Districts, in Kampong Cham Province and; a 4 year follow-on EMS project in partnership with University Research Co. (URC) to strengthen Emergency Referral Systems at facility level, in Nine provinces.

Background:

Although many people believe that orphanages are a good solution to caring for orphans and vulnerable children, research worldwide tells us that this type of long term residential care negatively impacts the lives of the children in the long term, and that carefully assessed and monitored care in families and communities is far more preferable for the vast majority of vulnerable children. Currently in Cambodia, there are 256 orphanages registered with the Government, and at least half as many again which remain unregistered. Nearly 3000 young people aged between 0 and 25 are living in orphanages in Phnom Penh, one third of them are aged 15 to 25. Levels of abuse, violence and exploitation in these orphanages are high, and young people are not being taught the life skills necessary to be independent and to keep themselves safe when they return to live in communities. They were taken into the orphanages because they were seen as vulnerable. This vulnerability hasn't been removed, it has only been delayed, and often, increased. Young adults still living in the orphanages fear that their future holds only friendlessness, rejection, exploitation, discrimination, loneliness, homelessness, starvation and victimisation. A large group of young adults who have already left orphanages and live in various places around Phnom Penh reports that they are being abused by employers, rejected and criticised constantly by neighbours, and fear for their lives. Most are surviving on less than $1 a day, and 100% of them have been homeless at some point during their transition out of the orphanages. The majority of children and young people living in Cambodia's orphanages today have parents and other relatives who could be supported to look after them. The tragedy is that most of them will not be able to return to live with their families after they leave the orphanages, as they have become disconnected and alienated from them. It is not that there are orphanages because there are orphans; there are orphans because there are orphanages. Those who do not have relatives also have the right to be brought up in a family. M'lup Russey previously worked under the name ICC-Project SKY, and has recently registered as a Local Non-Governmental Organisation in Cambodia. The 2012 project evaluation confirmed that M'lup Russey is the only programme in Cambodia concentrating on supporting the reintegration of children in residential care. Key team members of M'lup Russey have worked in the field of alternative care for up to 12 years, and advised on the writing of government policy documents, specifically the Minimum Standards for the Alternative Care of Children and the Policy on Alternative Care, as well as collaborating on seminal residential care research published by the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans and Youth Rehabilitation (MoSVY) in 2012. As a result, M'lup Russey has a very strong relationship with MoSVY, and project staff have an in-depth knowledge of policy and key persons within the Ministry. As a result, M'lup Russey continues to be in the position of both advising on evolving government policy and supporting the Royal Government of Cambodia in its work to implement existing alternative care policy.

Background:

MoPoTsyo patient information centre is a Cambodian non governmental organisation (NGO) for people with chronic disease in Cambodia. The focus groups are people with diabetes in poor communities. Once the community is firmly established, it also includes people with high blood pressure but no diabetes. The organisation was established in 2004 by five Cambodians and one Dutch to provide an institutional and practical response to the information needs for diabetes. Most Cambodians who are diagnosed with diabetes do not have access to good information. Public service health staff is severely underpaid and they have no time to listen to the patient's questions and provide answers patients need. Yet, without patient involvement and understanding of the disease, treatment adherence is more likely to fail.

Morodok is a Khmer word that translates to 'heritage', 'inheritance' or 'legacy'. The MORODOK has a logo which is meaning and characterized as following:

- Below the Golden Box, there are two hands in positioning upholding the Golden Box. And all the pictures is positioned at the center of the Cycle surface in white color, which surrounded by a thick cycle line in light blue color (UN flag color).
- Along with the thick cycle line, there are four Khmer wordings spaced out rounding from one after the other follow the clock direction. Those words are: Meakear, Reakchamroeun, Domlapheap and Kerdomnel.
- Golden Box consists of some valuable thing inside, such as experience, skills, knowledge, methods, strategy, etc, which is represent inheritance.
- The two hands in positioning upholding the Golden box represent the Khmer local staff who working as a team for the Integrated Sustainable Livelihood Program (ISLP), receiving inheritance.
- The white cycle surface at the background of the pictures, represent freshness and harmonization.
- The thick cycle line with light blue color, represent peace and full participation with ownership.
- Regarding the four Khmer words: Meakear, Reakchamroeun, Domlapheap and Kerdomnel, have been derived from the word MORODOK. These wording have been formulated as a Khmer statement called "Meakea tovkann Pheap Reakchamroeun prokopdauy Domlapheap delchea Kedomnel", it means ways towards progress with transparency for inheritance to next generation". This means we work to improve people's livelihoods so it can be passed on to the next generation.

Type of NGOs: Local

Background:

Neary Khmer is a local Non-Governmental Organisation (NGO). It is not for profit, is non-religious, apolitical, and non-racist. Neary Khmer staff are dedicated to working with the poorest, most vulnerable and disadvantaged women and their children in rural Cambodia. They only operate in Siem Reap Province, which is one of Cambodia's poorest provinces. The hardship endured by the people exists in stark contrast to the luxury enjoyed by many of the two million+ visitors who flock to see the spectacular Angkor Wat each year. Neary Khmer was founded in 1998 by staff of Australian Volunteers International and the Centre Canadien D'études Et De Cooperation International (CECI) Food Security Project. It was registered with the Ministry of Interior in 2002. Neary Khmer is proud to be one of just 36 NGOs (out of many thousands in Cambodia), which has achieved voluntary accreditation in Governance and Professional Practice (Quality Assurance) by the Cooperation Committee for Cambodia. This was first achieved in April 2011 and NK is in the process of updating their accreditation. Neary Khmer's work focuses on the areas of health, water, education, enterprise, agriculture and resilience. Its staff members are all locals who work cooperatively with commune councils, district authorities, and health centre staff; implementing projects through a network of village leaders and volunteers.

Background:

The NGO Education Partnership (NEP) was established in August 2002, as a result of a proposal from the Education Sub-Sector Working Group on NGO relations with the Ministry of Education, Youth and Sports (MoEYS). The intention of the Ministry was to increase the efficiency of communication with education NGOs and to extend their involvement in the education reform process. Since its inception in 2002, NEP membership has grown from seventeen (17) to eighty five (85). Initially, member organizations were predominantly headquartered in Phnom Penh. However, over the past two years, numbers of provincial based local NGOs applying for membership status with NEP has gradually been increasing. The provinces that our members located include Battambang, Kampong Thom, Kampong Cham, Kampong Speu, and Siem Reap, Pursat, Preah Sihanouk, Kratie, Svay Rieng, Prey Veng, Odor Meanchey, Banteay Meanchey and Takeo.

Background:

NTFP was registered with the Ministry of Interior of the Royal Government of Kingdom of Cambodia in May 18th, 2007. Effective engagement with indigenous communities, developed over a considerable time, is now a particular strength of NTFP. We target rural indigenous ethnic minority villages which do not have other organizations to support them on NRM and who, because their different culture and practices, different social institutions, beliefs and values, are not understood by outsiders. These communities are currently not able to defend their interests for themselves because they cannot speak the administrative language, Khmer, and they lack the technical skills and technology to support their claims. They are not empowered to stand up for their rights because they do not know what their rights are. They are also not aware of the legal instruments enacted by the country and need help to include their concerns in the formulation of legal instruments.

Background:

NPA's presence in Cambodia dates back to 1991 with a first observatory mission and the commencement of activities in 1992 in direct support of national clearance for the resettlement of refugees returning from Thailand. By 1996, the United Nations refugee agency, UNHCR, requested that NPA undertake the resettlement of thousands of these landless refugees. NPA started its mine action work in Cambodia in 1991, and has later become one of the largest and most influential mine action organizations world-wide. In 1996, NPA launched an integrated community development program in the northwest province of Banteay Meanchey being one of the most mine/UXO affected regions in Cambodia. NPA support to demining operations combined with community development projects was aimed at the building of enduring livelihoods for refugees, internally displaced populations and landless people. The implementation of these programmes generated infrastructure building, dissemination of farming techniques and tools, health targeted programs and the promotion of Village Development Committees (VDC) to foster the use of a systematic participatory approach and instigate the sense of local governance. Seven years later, the transition was made whereby earlier activities, which have responded to an emergency phase were newly designed towards a long-term humanitarian approach to secure the resettlement of 3,500 displaced families on mine-free and demined land in close cooperation with the Cambodian Mine Action Centre (CMAC), the national demining agency, and the Ministry of Rural Development. Today, NPA in South East Asia (Cambodia, Lao PDR, Myanmar, Vietnam, and Thailand) has chosen its efforts on three priority areas, the first two of which constitute the majority of our programs:

- To strengthen civil society as the key pillar for nation-building, democracy and development,
- To assist Cambodia to eliminate the threat of landmines, cluster munitions and other unexploded ordnance (UXO).
- NPA also carries out relief work by channelling help according to a given set of criteria.

While having the same long-term goals and ideological background and history, these three areas have different modi operandi, methodology and time frames. We engage in long-term partnerships with civilian organizations in order to strengthen their ability to fight to achieve democratic targets and to develop the abilities of local communities to manage changes and consolidate democratic targets. However, mine clearance and relief work are areas where we also work operationally in time-limited periods. NPA's work also includes advocacy and lobbying towards international institutions and national authorities.

Background:

In 1995, NYEMO France visited Cambodia to assess the feasibility of developing a social and economic reintegration program for vulnerable women in Phnom Penh and the first contacts were made for building the social and technical network on which the program would rely. Two years later, NYEMO returned and in March 1998, six months after NYEMO France got the official agreement of the Royal Government of Cambodia to implement its activities, NYEMO was ready to welcome its first beneficiaries. Continuous lobbying enabled to reinforce and expand the social and technical network. Governmental institutions, local civil society and international organizations and NGOs progressively reinforced their involvement through increased assistance and support. In 1999, the network was decided strong enough to handle a second program and NYEMO II was initiated. NYEMO II would focus on the reintegration of vulnerable women with children and women living with HIV/AIDS.

Established in 1986, Partnership for Development of Kampuchea (Padek) was one of the first non government organisations (NGOs) to begin working in community development in Cambodia. Given the fragile state of civil society and the immense poverty in the country, Padek aimed to improve the livelihoods and quality of life of the rural poor. Padek was established from a consortium of five international donors with Oxfam Novib acting as the leading donor. In 2002 Padek registered in Cambodia as an International NGO with the Cambodian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation. Subsequently, Padek became a Cambodian NGO with the Ministry of Interior in 2008 and Cambodian staff took over the management and leadership of the organisation. Community development work in the mid-1980s focused on relief and rehabilitation projects. As the Cambodian government allowed NGOs to carry out longer term development work at the local level, Padek began working with government departments at the district and provincial levels to improve their capacity to educate people on agricultural techniques. In the 1990s Padek began working directly with communities with a focus on rural development in specific target areas and beneficiary groups. Drawing on Padek's experience in rural development, a new model of integrated community development was adopted in 1999 and formed the core of Padek's work for the next decade. The 'Padek's Integrated Community Development Model' or PICDM developed the basic needs of communities (such as food security, health and education) and improved livelihoods. This approach strengthened and enhanced community based organisations (CBOs) at the grassroots level so that they acquired the skills and expertise to become sustainable and to meet the needs of their local community. The PICDM approach put in place community structures that effectively addressed poverty and encouraged community participation and empowerment in sustainable community development. Padek's program approach also incorporated disaster management, gender mainstreaming, HIV/AIDS, networking and policy advocacy. Between 2005 and 2008 Padek expanded its project areas to include Oddar Meanchey and Kompong Speu. By 2010 Padek was working with communities in Prey Veng, Svay Rieng, Kratie, Oral, Kompong Speu, Oddar Meanchey, Siem Reap, and Phnom Penh. In 2011 Padek began developing a new approach to ensure the organisation remained relevant in the face of changing community needs, new international priorities, and the changing socioeconomic and political environment within Cambodia. Our new Strategic Plan 2013-2016 was adopted in January 2013 and its core focus is community savings groups, livelihood enhancement and disaster resilience

Plan was founded in 1937 to provide food, accommodation and education for children whose lives had been disrupted by war. The two cofounders, a journalist and a refugee worker, conceived the idea of a personal relationship between a child and a sponsor – a model that puts the child at the centre and today remains the core of what Plan does. The idea that problems faced by many children can be reflected in the story of one child's life helps people to see the human face of poverty and, more importantly, how they can help. Plan Established in Cambodia in 2002, Plan International Cambodia signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation and later with the Ministry of Rural Development, Ministry of Health and Ministry of Education Youth and Sports. Plan is now working in the provinces of Siem Reap, Kampong Cham and Ratanak Kiri.

In 1993 CORD started its operation in Prey Veng province providing support and assistance to poor people in Prey Veng province. A project called "ABCD" (Agriculture Business and Community Development) was established. In 1998, based on strategic planning in order to promote sustainable local development, a local non-governmental organization Ponleu Ney Kdey Sangkhom (PNKS), means Light of Hope, was localized from CORD to handle the ABCD project. PNKS was officially registered with the Ministry of Interior in January 2001. In 2001, CORD took over an integrated rural development project, Community Development Assistance Project (CDAP) in Kampong Speu Province, started by ZOA in 1998. Over a period of six years CORD reduced its role while initiating a range of capacity development strategies within PNKS. Finally in 2004, EFGH (Education For Good Health) and CDAP, then it was called Somleng Kampong Speu project, meaning voice of Kampong Speu were handed over to PNKS. CORD has continued to support PNKS. At the beginning of 2006, the ABCD project was integrated together with the EFGH project combination of these two projects comprises a program called "A2H" program. The year 2006 marked the transition year for the merging of the two projects. The plan to merge the ABCD and EFGH into one program was aimed to better serve the target group of each project by integrating planning, management and monitoring of the projects. The project was then called "Somleng Prey Veng project", means Voice of Prey Veng, being consistent with another project in Kampong Speu which is called "Somleng Kampong Speu" project.

Since 1995, PATH has been a partner in Cambodia’s public health efforts. We are helping to support the reconstruction of a health system that was largely destroyed during the 1970s, building capacity across the public, private, and civil-society sectors. By collaborating with local and international partners—including government agencies, public- and private-sector health service providers, nongovernmental organizations, United Nations agencies, and community groups—we are addressing priority health issues and increasing the reach of lifesaving health interventions.

Background:

RainWater Cambodia was established in October 2003 through a collaboration of Cambodian and foreign nationals. Their common bond was a concern for the health of people in Cambodia, especially women and children. Access to clean drinking water and improved sanitation are clear priorities for improved health and that is why RainWater Cambodia focuses on these areas. Wherever possible we build on the strengths of traditional practices - such as rain water collection - but do so in a way which manages the risks associated with traditional methods such as preventing mosquitoes from breeding in the tank and preventing contamination from humans and animals. To date we estimate that RainWater Cambodia has assisted over 100,000 people to access safer drinking water through formalised rainwater harvesting! RainWater Cambodia operates as a non-government, not for profit organisation which does not serve the interests of any political party. RainWater Cambodia was established according to the requirements of the Royal Government of Cambodia and has been registered with the appropriate Government departments. We have also recently received NGO GPP certification which provides an even higher level of confidence for our donors and partners who continue to support our work.

Save the Children has been working in Cambodia since 1970. The children's aid agency had to leave the country when the Khmer Rouge regime took control but re-engaged when they fell in 1979.

Save the Children provided relief assistance to the worst affected families under the Khmer Rouge regime and then gradually shifted its focus to education, child protection, health, child rights governance and disaster relief. We work closely with government partners and local NGO partners to improve children's lives, especially those living with disabilities, children in contact with the law, and orphaned, vulnerable and disadvantaged children.

Background:

The Japan Sotoshu Relief Committee (JSRC), the forerunner of SVA was formed in response to the huge outflow of refugees from Indochina in 1979. Centering on the volunteers who participated in these activities, in 1981 the organization was reformed into the Sotoshu Volunteer Association. In 1999, SVA was accredited the legal status, changing its name to Shanti Volunteer Association. Shanti means "peace" in Sanskrit. SVA has carried out activities focusing on educational & cultural support in refugee camps, such as libraries, printing, and publication. However with the closing of the camps, activities have shifted to reconstruction and development cooperation in Thailand, Laos, and Cambodia. Presently in Thai SVA is administering libraries, and nursery school in Bangkok slums, and in rural villages in the North, and Northeast. In Cambodia, SVA are supporting school construction, library activities, pre-school education, culture and tradition and, vocational training centers. Also in Laos SVA is undertaking support activities for libraries, teaching material development and children centers. SVA is also engaged in emergency humanitarian response. SVA have supported victims of the earthquake in Kobe, Japan in 1995-1997, flood in Cambodia 1996 and in 2000-2002, food shortages in North Korea 1997-1998, an earthquake in China 1997, earthquake in Turkey and, Taipei-China in 1999 in the field of food, shelter and sanitation. SVA has provided assistance to the Myanmar refugees who fled to Thailand in the education sector since 2000 as an implementing partner of UNHCR.

Sipar was founded in 1982 in France in order to help refugees from south-east Asian countries coming to France. It extended its action to the Thailand refugee camps before coming to Cambodia in 1991. Then, its main action between 1991 and 1995 aimed at providing technical assistance to the Provincial Office of Education and the technical training centers in four provinces: Kompong Speu, Kompong Chhnang, Kandal and Prey Veng. Over the 25 years, Sipar has developed a network of reading places, fixed and mobile, in order to support reading development in Cambodia. Furthermore, Sipar, aware of the publishing situation in Cambodia and the lack of books in Khmer language for young people, initiated a publishing program in 2000, with several series for readers from birth to adulthood.

Background:

1992 – 1993 New beginnings In 1992 the Khmer Buddhist Society, founded by Cambodian-American social workers, began training village volunteers in social services skills. The volunteers then provided direct social services to communities. The initial training (supported by USAID/PACT) taught 130 community leaders from eleven provinces. A relationship quickly formed with the Ministry of Social Affairs and in November 1992 the group opened the Kampong Speu Training Centre in a building provided by the Ministry. During the next two years, 200 trainees graduated through the five-month intensive program. 1994 – 1999 Strengthening the foundation for social worker education In 1994, and for the next five years, the team travelled around the country, training 600 staff of the Ministry of Social Affairs (supported by PACT/USAID and then UNICEF). In 1994, in cooperation with the Cambodian Mental Health Program, a model Social and Mental Health Services (SMHS) project was started in Kampong Speu. SMHS provides home-based client-centred counselling and case management services to people with psychosocial problems ranging from severe mental illness to post-traumatic stress, and relationship and substance abuse. This program has been supported over the years by USAID/Pact, JICA and Louvain Développement. Social Services of Cambodia was officially formed as a local NGO in May 1996 with the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding with the Ministry of Social Affairs. In 1999, responding to requests from other agencies, SSC began offering social work and counselling education training to Government and NGO staff. In 1999 SSC expanded its community-based work with the launch of the STAR project (supported by US Dept. of State/PACT), which combined psychosocial interventions with economic empowerment. In 2005 (with support of ICCO), the program was modified, and drew on participatory drama techniques, to facilitate therapeutic community dialogues and promoted strong family and community relationships. 2000 – 2006 Consolidating and learning Beginning in 2003 (and with support from the GTZ Promotion of Women's Rights Program) SSC began developing a high quality training institution. In 2004 SSC renovated a training building in the grounds of the Institute for Public Health in Phnom Penh and continued to build capacity of its team of Khmer trainers. A basic Social Work Skills training for people who have experienced gender-based violence (GBV) was launched in 2004. An intermediate Social Work curriculum was delivered in 2005. The Community-based Livelihood Enhancement Program, CBLE, began in Oddar Meanchay, Siem Reap in 2004. CBLE was supported by ADB/CARE and drew on innovative learning technologies (such as "blue cloth" community psychosocial assessment, oral histories and participatory drama) to facilitate community dialogues through which villagers were able to recognize and build on their own resilience. The Sexual Assault Centre (supported by EU) opened in Kandal Province in 2006. The Centre provides a safe residence for people who have experienced gender-based violence as well as an open-door centre to allow people to access an array of supportive services including counselling, information and referral, and legal and medical care. The Centre also serves as a base for community staff who provide support to women and children affected by gender based violence in their homes and communities, so as to encourage families and communities to take on the role of rehabilitation and reintegration. Looking ahead A 2007 evaluation of the Training Centre found that the quality of the course was exceptionally high and its impact on trainees powerful. The evaluation also indicated the potential to expand the Centre's offerings. The SSC strategic plan was finalized and an implementation strategy was developed that will allow it to expand and deepen its work.

The story from the Executive Director: This Life Cambodia was started in December 2007 while I was working for a large charity in Siem Reap. In September 2007 members of a community who had amazing dreams approached me. They wanted to start an extracurricular school in their village. I told them to come back to me when they had something to show. The community did in December 2007. Members of the community had built two classrooms out of thatching and had 200 students enrolled to study extracurricular activities; classes had already started. My initial thoughts were great; I can write a project proposal for the organization, which would then open up further prospects for development for the center. This is where it all started

Background:

VIC's work in Cambodia started in late 1991 with the mission to rehabilitate people living with disabilities in Cambodia and help them to lead active, fulfilling lives. In 1992, VIC, at the time a project of the Vietnam Veterans of America Foundation (VVAFA), which was part of Bobby Mueller's Veterans for America (VFA) opened its first center, the Kien Khleang Clinic with funding from USAID's War Victims Fund. In 1995, VIC opened a regional facility in the Prey Veng province to extend services to the disabled in the densely populated northeastern regions of Cambodia. This area is especially afflicted with birth defects such as club foot and cerebral palsy due to the use of Agent Orange during the Vietnam War. The third center in Kratie province was opened in August 2000, on the grounds of the provincial hospital. This center provides a range of rehabilitation services to those northern provinces initially assisted through the disbanded mobile teams. That same year, VIC created the CBR Program with priority activities on mainstreaming and empowering PWDs to lead a higher quality lives and become equal members of their communities with equal rights, opportunities and responsibilities. In January 2009, VFA transferred the American headquarters and management of the VIC clinics to The International Center. The IC is a Washington DC based 501(c) 3 non-profit organization founded in 1977 to focus on issues between the United States and the developing world. Over the years the International Center has had projects in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the former Soviet Union. At present, VIC operates three physical rehabilitation centers (PRCs) in conjunction with the MoSVY/PWDF located in Kien Khleang, in Kratie and in Prey Veng. VIC operates community based rehabilitation work covering Phnom Penh, Kandal, Kratie, Prey Veng and Svay Rieng provinces. VIC continues and reinforces efforts towards an improved quality of life for PWDs and their families through mobility, socialization, education, job opportunities and facilitation of self help groups/federations/ DPOs. VIC, over the years, continued to strengthen its partnerships with the Provincial Office of Health, Provincial Office of EYSs and Provincial Office of SVY, commune councils, provincial authorities, as VI's end goal is for the work with PWDs to be technically and financially sustainable. Beginning in 2011, IC and VIC began a multiyear sustainability program with several parts: In 2012, VIC implemented a sliding fee model at all the three of its centers. VIC transferred the management of the three centers to MoSVY/PoSVY/PWDF in January 2013.

Background:

Voluntary Service Overseas (VSO) began in 1958 when Alec and Mora Dickson recruited and sent 16 British volunteers overseas in response to a letter from the Bishop of Portsmouth asking for people to teach English in Borneo. Much has changed since then. VSO has engaged over 43,000 volunteers to work on international development programmes in more than 120 countries. We've gone from being a UK charity to an international one, with recruitment bases in seven countries. In 2013/2014 alone, our volunteers trained over 174,000 people, and delivered services that had an impact on the lives of 2 million.

Today, VSO is a truly global organisation. We recruit skilled volunteers from all over the world, and from all sectors of society, including business leaders, parliamentarians and young people. Currently, over 30% of our people come from within the country of their placement. We also send increasing numbers of people from one developing country to another. We're always looking for new ways to turn human energy and ingenuity into lasting change. We still send professionals to share their skills with their local counterparts, but we've embraced a range of methods that allow us to provide whatever kind of help is needed most, including promoting international understanding and action, knowledge sharing and youth exchanges.

Background:

The Wholistic Development Organization (WDO) was established as a local NGO in Dec 2005, continuing the work of the FAITH project (Food And Income Generation, Training and Health) which had been run by Southeast Asian Outreach (SAO) and International Cooperation Cambodia (ICC). The organization is committed to a multi-dimensional approach to its program that deliberately addresses the various dimensions of poverty in target communities. WDO has two main program areas – a community development project that works across five provinces (approx. 60 villages) and a church based project that works with pastors and local church leaders to promote understanding of a wholistic approach to communities and individuals. The two main programs are; Cheas Ponleu/ Shining Light (CP) and Wholistic Community Development Project (WCDP). WCDP works in poor rural communities throughout Cambodia to improve physical, social, spiritual and environmental situations mainly through facilitating training, education and awareness raising in the fields of agriculture, gender, rights, water and sanitation and income generation. CP works with the pastors or Christian leaders in provinces, to encourage them in completing wholistic ministry in their local communities. This is achieved through conducting training courses in spiritual, physical, emotional and social areas along with offering further wisdom to the leaders. The CP program also works with pastors and leaders in undertaking practical development initiatives.

World Education, Inc. (WEI) has been working since 1951 to improve the lives of children and adults through education in over 50 countries. WEI works with private, public, and non-governmental organizations to support effective local management and partnerships that build the skills, knowledge, and resources of local groups. WEI currently works in 22 countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin America, as well as the United States and Australia. WEI has been working in both the formal and non-formal education sectors in Cambodia for over twenty years in an effort to provide improved educational opportunities for Cambodians and enhanced life outcomes. WEI has extensive experience working with the formal education system, promoting safe migration among vulnerable youth to prevent trafficking and exploitation, providing financial literacy training to improve livelihoods, and promoting health education. Throughout all projects, WEI incorporates capacity building, girls' education, and information and communication technologies (ICT).

Background:

World Relief began responding in the early 1980s to the crucial needs of Cambodia's most vulnerable populations. As part of a war relief effort World Relief participated in the "Land Bridge" operation in the early 1980s sending critically needed relief supplies into areas controlled by Khmer Rouge. World Relief served Cambodians in several regional refugee camps throughout the 1980s and early 1990s as well as becoming one of North America's largest resettlement organizations of Cambodian refugees. In 1990 a representative office was established in Phnom Penh and ongoing programs were initiated. Cambodia's neediest woman and their at-risk children are the primary focus of efforts. Currently that 60,000 poor and vulnerable are served each week in the following ongoing programs:

- Hope Program: for Cambodia's Children is an integrated program providing poor children, ages 5-12, weekly children's program of preventive health education, safety training, school promotion, etc. More than 22,000 children in 156 villages and slum areas in 4 provinces participate each week. Local teens are trained in this approach to continue this work in their own neighborhoods. Another 4,000 teens participate in AIDS awareness and accountability groups.
- CM Program: The goal of this project is to build the capacity of churches and community groups to reach out to their villages and communities with AIDS education and awareness messages, actively seek to reduce stigma against PLWAs, and to provide home care and assistance to those who suffer from AIDS and to family members affected by AIDS.
- Sokhapheap Phum Yoeung program: objective to improved home management and appropriate care seeking for common childhood illness. Expand provision of quality community new boran car. Increase coverage of HIV/AIDS prevention for the general population. Integrate of HIV/AIDS prevention and contraceptive services for improved family health. Expand care group network to majority of ODs in Kampong Cham province, training 13,500 = volunteers, extending the reach of the health system to every home. Build the capacity of others to train and work with care groups.
- Community Protection of Children program: This project developed after considering that the people in community are not known about the prevention of all forms of human trafficking in particular woman and child trafficking. So, hence, we decide to establish this project to train chiefs of village, chiefs of commune and staff of partner NGOs to protect their communities from human trafficking. This project will cover on 5 Provinces and City includes: Kampong Cham, Kampong Thom, Pursat, Kandal and Phnom Penh. 200 staff will receive directly training on human trafficking, child value and safe emigration. 50 chiefs of commune and 150 chiefs of village will be provided training on human trafficking, child value and safe emigration. 100 families in 13 Districts will receive training on human trafficking, child value and safe emigration.
- Currently Hope Program : Multi-Sectoral, Integrated program of Mobilizing for Life, Way of Hope, Hope of Cambodia Children, Anti-Trafficking, and Moringa, reach out to adult, teen, children (5-12ys) and community leaders in 5 provinces (Phnom Penh, Kandal, Kampong Cham, Kampong Thom, and Pursat), with total of 568 villages.

Christian Reformed World Relief Committee (CRWRC) has worked for over thirty seven years throughout the world in partnership with poor families and communities. It offers hope, compassion and growth. Its purpose is to demonstrate the love of Jesus Christ through service in building high quality, effective development programs which particularly benefit the poor and oppressed. CRWRC works in more than 27 countries in the world. In Asia, CRWRC implements programs in India, Bangladesh, Indonesia the Philippines, Cambodia and Laos. CRWRC's strategy is to work through a community development process to enable people to work collaboratively with their neighbors to identify opportunities for growth related to their ability to feed, clothe, maintain health and educate their families. People are taught to make the most of their opportunities and resources by working cooperatively to benefit their families and communities. In the past ten years, CRWRC has focused primarily on building and strengthening the capacity of indigenous organizations, wherever feasible, as they work with the poor through programs of income generation, food production, health care, and adult literacy. CRWRC works in partnership with 65 indigenous development organizations throughout the world. The values driving its development strategies with impoverished communities include building dignity, peace building, ownership, participation, empowerment, independence and sustainability. To enable effective development careful planning, monitoring and feedback are structured into the organization's method of operation.

Background:

WV entered Cambodia in 1970 supporting emergency relief and completed a new children's hospital in 1975 just before the Khmer Rouge's take-over of the country. WV was among the first international NGOs to re-enter Cambodia after 1979, initially with massive relief and reconstruction assistance. WV's programs have since been developed through sectoral projects in health and agriculture to a focus on holistic, integrated community development projects at district level (mostly funded through child sponsorship); complemented by a number of strategic sectoral projects at national level in: health & nutrition, education, youth, child protection, economy & agriculture development, water & sanitation, advocacy, and relief assistance. In the last 34 years that WV has been in Cambodia, over US$100 millions have been invested in its programs. WVC's projects are currently operating in 9 provinces and Phnom Penh

Background:

YOUTH ARE THE AGENTS OF SOCIAL CHANGE and the future of our country depends on the quality of our thinking. The recognition of the importance of youth, the possibility of Cambodians to initiate and participate in civic activities, YRDP was formally initiated in October 1992. In 1998 this program was legally registered with the Ministry of the Interior as a local non-governmental youth organization. The official NGO registration number issued 12th October 1999 is N° 891. YRDP is not affiliated with any political party or religion and bases its work on the values of empowerment, development, active non-violence, solidarity, gender equity, impartiality and transparency. The founder, Ms. Myriam Frys-Denis, from Belgium worked in Cambodia as a nurse educator in 1988. She realized that Cambodian nurses needed training in critical thinking skills. She worked with a few Cambodian students to create a program to develop student's capacity to analyze and reflect on their own and their country's situation and to act for social change. YRDP's philosophy largely derived from the theory of Brazilian educator, Paulo Freire (1921-1997). The program began with the understanding that education for empowerment must go beyond the acquisition of knowledge and operate from the premise that people not only have the ability to know reality but also the capacity for critical reflection and action. Since 1992, about 60,000 students (42% are female) have participated in YRDP activities. Many are now working with different institutes, including private companies, civil society organizations, and government departments, as well as running their own businesses.

APPENDIX A: NGO SECTOR DESCRIPTION

The CCC uses a simple coding system for classifying NGO project activities in its database. Only a small number of codes are used, and have been developed over time to cover the most common categories of NGO activities. We recognize that the categories are very broad, and do not go into specific detail with sub-sectors. This is intentional to allow for easy quick-reference when searching the directories by sector.

The guide below will give you an indication of what types of projects should be listed under each category.

Sectors	Description
Agriculture/ Animal Health (AG)	Agriculture, animal health, farming, irrigation
Arts and Culture (AC)	Arts, culture, craft shops, religion
Child Welfare/ Rights (CW)	Children's issues, child rights, child welfare, child health,
Community Development (CD)	All general development activities, including urban and rural development (when not related to other categories, eg. agriculture).
Credit and Savings (CS)	Includes microfinance, small business, loans and micro-credit and credit programs.
Disability and Rehabilitation (DR)	Includes all disability related programs, and disability rehabilitation.
Disaster Preparedness/Relief (DP/DR)	Emergency relief, planning, disaster preparedness, disaster relief.
Education/Training (ET)	All education projects including infrastructure (eg. school building), vocational and skills training.
Environment/Natural Resource (ENR)	Environmental issues, natural resource management and related programs, forestry, waster management,
Gender/Women Issues (GW)	Women's issues, women's rights, gender
Health/Nutrition (HN)	All health and nutrition related topics except for HIV/AIDS and STI's, and some child health (also see Child welfare/Rights).
HIV/AIDS (HA)	HIV/AIDS and STI's (sexually transmitted infections)
Human Rights/Democracy (HR)	Human rights, democracy, governance, legislation, elections, advocacy, conflict resolution,
Land Mine/UXO Action/Awareness (LM)	Landmines, UXO's and related programs.
Management/Organisational Development (MOD)	Training and research related to management and organizational development, human resource development,
Other	Any project that does not fall into any of the other categories. This should be considered as a last resort category only, and it is much better if another category can be selected.
Support to Cambodian Organisations (SCO)	Capacity building and training of Local NGOs.
Water and Sanitation (WS)	Water, sanitation and related hygiene issues, infrastructure related to hygiene.

Where do I Put?

- Research – under the sector that the research relates to.
- Rural Development – either under community development, agriculture, or water and sanitation, depending on which the project most directly relates to.
- Construction/Infrastructure – under the sector that the construction related to (eg. school building construction should be coded under Education/Training).

The Ministry of Interior

No. 474 សណ្ឋាន.មជ្ឈ

Phnom Penh, Date: 06 July 1994

The Minister of the Ministry of Interior
Inform to

- Your Excellency, Phnom Penh Municipality Major
- Your Excellency, Provincial/City Governors

Subject: The case that Associations ask for permission from Provincial/city government to open their office and start activities.

Ref: Announcement No. 095 ប្រកាស dated: 07 May 1994 on Tasks and Structure of cabinet of the Minister of the Ministry of Interior.

In reference to the above, I would like to inform Your Excellency, Phnom Penh Municipality Major and Provincial/City governors that the ministry, so far, has seen that the approval of the requests of associations to open offices and start activities in the provinces/ cities has not been applied in the same way, i.e. some provinces/cities asked for comments from the ministry before making a decision, while others had made a decision and then asked for comments from the ministry.

In order to have a common form throughout the country for approving the request of Associations to open the office and start activities and in order to coordinate the management of the association's activities as well as in accordance with actual situation that the law on Association is not available, the Ministry of Interior does not authorize the Provinces/Cities to approve the request of association to open the office and start activities at the provincial/city level.

To this matter, if any association asks for permission to open its office and start activities, would Your Excellency kindly please ask that association submit the request to the Ministry of Interior. However, if an association has already opened the office in the provinces/cities, but has no purpose to start vocational training, conduct workshops or meetings, the association needs to inform the local authorities within 5 days prior to the above mentioned.

Per the above request, I would like Your Excellencies, Phnom Penh Major and Provincial/city governors be informed and apply effectively.

Please accept with my highest respect.
